Description:

The Black Sea On The Eve of the Crimean War

Scarce chart of the Black Sea, Sea of Mamora, Sea of Azov and contiguous regions, published by the British Admiralty, issued one month before the start of the Crimean War.

The chart includes anchorages, soundings, topographical details, lighthouses and other navigational details. The chart includes a large profile view of the entrance to the Bosphorus.

The map is based upon the work of Captain Manganari from 1825-1836, who surveyed both the Azov and the Black seas, and collected all his work in an atlas published in 1842.

Rarity

The map is rare on the market. Later examples appear occasionally on the market.
