Description:

Second edition of De Fer's rare map of the region extending from Hong Kong and Macao in the east to the Indus River and Maldives in the west, bearing the imprint of his son-in-law and successor, Guillaume Danet.

This fascinating map includes exceptional detail in the map and excellent survey of the coordinates of 20 major cities, including Malacca, Canton, Macao, Pekin and Siam. Sincapour is named, with a fine detailed treatment of the Straits. Within the map, there are several interesting annotations, including a note showing the location of Sancham (Sancian), where St. Francis Xavier died in December 1552.

First issued in 1709, this is one of the earliest maps to bear the imprint of Nicolas De Fer's son-in-law, Guillaume Danet, following De Fer's death in 1720, in Danet's Atlas ou Recueil de Cartes Geographiques. Danet also re-issued the map in 1728. All editions are very rare on the market.
