Description:

Rare early annual report for the La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad, with a large folding map showing the route of the La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad and the neighboring railroad lines and states.

The La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad was chartered in 1852 and failed shortly after the panic of 1857. Before its failure, the line succeeded in becoming the second railroad to connect Milwaukee to the Mississippi River.

By the following year, the La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad would propose and extensions of its line to the confluence of the Little Missouri River and the White Earth River in Nebraska Territory to its terminus in Milwaukee.

The map provides a marvelous overview of the region covered by the line and network of competing railroad lines operating in the Midwest in the 1850s.
