Description:

One of the earliest separately issued large format maps of Southern California, covering Los Angeles County, the western parts of San Diego and San Bernardino Counties and parts of Kern and Santa Barbara Counties.

A remarkable large format map, published at the height of Southern California's first major land boom. One of the more unique features of the map is the coloring of the Ranchos of Southern California, a features which we have not otherwise seen on a printed map. Relief shown by hachures and spot heights. The map also shows drainage, township and section lines, ranchos, land ownership, Indian reservations, railroads, etc. Includes index and table of distances from Los Angeles.

Our research of general maps of Southern California revealed only one earlier map, Map of private grants and public lands adjacent to Los Angeles and San Diego: in the southern part of California (Compiled by Clinton Day and printed by Britton & Rey in San Francisco (1869), which is known only in 1 example (Bancroft)).

The map is very rare. OCLC locates only 2 examples (Bancroft and Huntington copies). An example is also believed to have been in the personal collection of the venerable Los Angeles Antiquarian Bookseller, Glen Dawson. We are aware of only 1 example on the market in the past 30 years, which we sold to a private collection in Los Angeles in 2009.

Detailed Condition:

Cleaned and laid down on fresh linen. A number of areas of minor cracking and a few areas of restoration, but in all an exceptional survival.
