Description:

Highly detailed map of China, extending to the Gobi Desert in the North and including Formosa and Hainan Islands, with a large decorative cartouche and explanatory table.

The map is colored by provinces. Haas was one of the mid-period Homann Heirs, whose cartographic publications were the most prolific in Germany during the 18th Century. An excellent highly detailed map, based upon the works of Du Halde and D'Anville. Gorgeous full color. Upper right margin narrow but sufficient for framing.

Detailed Condition:

Side margins extended.
