Description:

Rare map of Indian Territory, showing the ultimate configuration of the State of Sequoyah, which the Indian Nations attempted to create in 1905 in an effort to thwart the expansive tendencies of the United States.

The regions of the Chickasaw, Choctaw, Creek, Seminole, Cherokee, and several other Indian tribes are named. The Territory of Oklahoma appears in the northwest. Subdivided areas are shown in red and exterior border lines are in blue.

This historical map was compiled and drawn by R.P. Lowe, traced and lettered by Wm. Naylor. Lithography by the Norris Peters Company.

The map is very rare. We are aware of only one prior offer of the map in the past 20 years.
