Description:

A Celebration of Mexican Insurgency -- Teaching Mexican Children The History of Mexico's Independence Movements

Finely executed game board and map celebrating the history of Mexico's most famous insurgents.

The game board maps the routes of taken by eight of Mexico's most famous insurgent leaders, each of whom would be come a national hero for their leadership in various Mexican Independence movements.

Garcia Cubas had a long-standing interest in primary education for Mexican children and created a number of texts on the geography and history of Mexico intended for the instruction of its youngest citizens.

Rarity

We note only a damaged example, lacking the top right corner and some loss at the center, at the Getty Library and a reference to an example held at the Benson Library, University of Texas at Austin.
