Second State of Seutter's map of Lithuania and Poland, extending from the Baltic (Riga) to Palatinat Polesia Bressicenis in the south.

A highly detailed map of Lithuania, showing towns, castles, Palatinates, rivers, lakes, forests, etc.

There are 3 states of the map:

- State 1: No privilege in the top right corner
- State 2: Seutter privilege added at top right (1731-32)
- State 3: JM Probst imprint added at the upper left corner (1762)

The map shows the region shortly after the conclusion of the Great Northern War (1700-1721). During this time, the Russian army invaded Lithuania, causing significant damage to the country and weakening its power. The war ended with the Treaty of Nystad in 1721, which ceded parts of Lithuania to Russia and limited the political independence of the country.
