Description:

Excellent complete set of six small engravings of landscape scenes around Clerkenwell and Islington, by perhaps the greatest visual recorder of 17th-century London, the Czech engraver Wenceslaus Hollar.

One of the engravings in the set is labeled in the plate "Sold by John Overton." Overton was a major London print publisher of the 17th and early 18th centuries. He set his sons up in 1707 when he apparently retired.

Hind (72) comments on the set:

Nos. 72-77 form a series of Islington (or more strictly Clerkenwell) views.

Parthey says that later impressions of the whole series bear Overton's address. But I have only seen his address on No. 77.

Hind includes good attempts to locate the perspective of each view.

Detailed Condition:

Six separate prints. Each print trimmed outside the neatline and captions.
