Description:

Interesting pair of two historical maps: one showing the residence of the Israelites in the Desert after the Exodus and one showing the divisions of the 12 Tribes.

The maps are beautifully detailed, showing many features throughout the Holy Land. The left map includes a map of the camp that the Israelites would make in the desert. The right map includes a plan of the city of Jerusalem.

This map was published by Matthew Carey for his edition of Lavoisine's Atlas in Philadelphia at the start of the 19th century.

Detailed Condition:

Original hand-color. Fold toning. Some even toning throughout.
