Description:

Crisply engraved map of North America at the height of its early territorial transition. The Louisiana Purchase has just been consummated. Kentucky and Tennessee are both shown. East & West Florida are still in existence. The NW Coast of America has now been charted on the coastline, but is still largely unknown between Ft. Vancouver and Monterrey. Hearne & MacKenzie have explored the interior of NW Canada, but the American Rocky Mountains are still completely unknown. A conjectural Missouri River extends tentatively to the Rocky Mtns. An interesting map based upon Morse's map of 1797. Wheat 244.
