

Barry Lawrence Ruderman Antique Maps Inc.

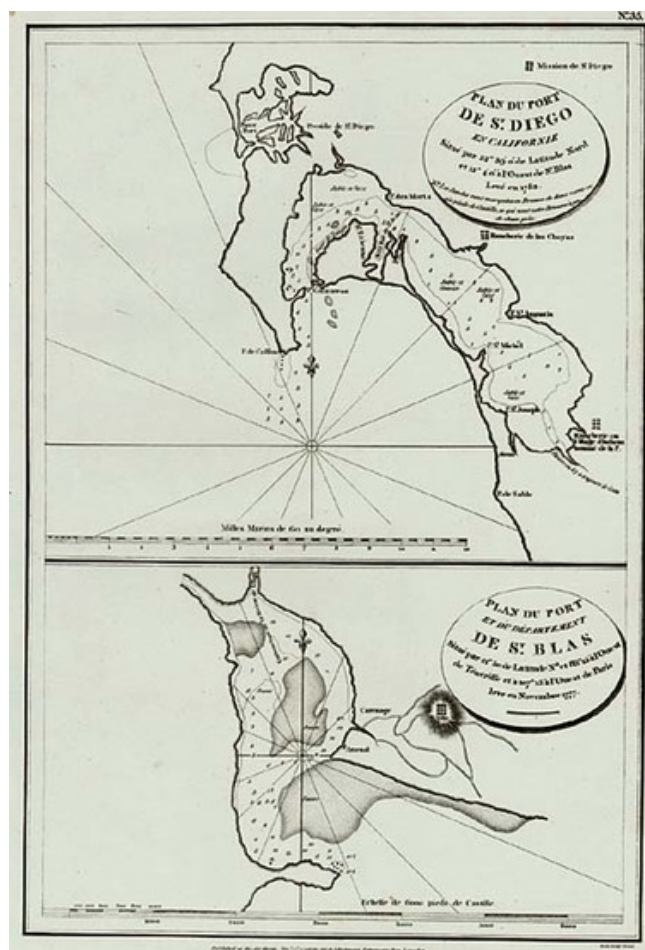

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

Plan Du Port De St. Diego En Californie...1782... [with] Plan Du Port Et Du Departement De St. Blas...1777...

Stock#: 0960
Map Maker: La Perouse
Date: 1798
Place: London
Color: Uncolored
Condition: VG+
Size: 14.5 x 9 inches
Price: SOLD

Description:

Important early map of San Diego and San Blas, based upon the surveys of Juan Pantoja. Pantoja was a captain plying the Manila trade for Spain in the late 18th Century. The base of operations was San Blas. Pantoja made several supply runs north along the coast, stopping in San Diego, Monterrey and San Francisco among other places, to supply the missions and make surveys. Before he could transmit his work to Madrid, he apparently shared his work with La Perouse, who was then exploring the Pacific in the wake of Cook's monumental voyages. Ironically, both men died before their works were published. This is an odd English edition of the map, published in French in a slightly smaller format than the original French edition, but not yet translated to English. La Perouse probably never actually entered into the harbor and relied solely on Pantoja's manuscript charts for his information. He certainly did not conduct any surveys

Barry Lawrence Ruderman
Antique Maps Inc.

7407 La Jolla Boulevard
La Jolla, CA 92037

www.raremaps.com

(858) 551-8500
blr@raremaps.com

---

Plan Du Port De St. Diego En Californie...1782... [with] Plan Du Port Et Du Departement De St. Blas...1777...

of the Bay. The map shows the Presidio, several ranchos and the landing prominently described by Dana in 3 Years Before The Mast. This is the earliest obtainable printed map of San Diego, preceded only by rare maps by Dalrymple and a few other equally unobtainable works. San Blas was the primary Spanish depot on the west coast of Mexico. A fine example of a seminal map of San Diego.

Detailed Condition: