Description:

This two-sided promotional pictorial map for the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, titled "Hollywood California World Famous Hollywood Roosevelt - A Hull Hotel," is a captivating artifact of mid-20th century American tourism and hospitality, specifically centered on the allure of Hollywood, California.

The first side presents a pictorial map highlighting the hotel's prominent location in Hollywood. Framed by a vibrant yellow border and adorned with decorative elements that evoke the glamour and excitement of the entertainment industry, the map illustrates the Roosevelt Hotel as the luminous heart of Hollywood. Various significant landmarks and attractions are marked and numbered, including famous theatres, studios, and other cultural sites. This map not only serves as a guide to the hotel's surroundings but also as an emblem of Hollywood's golden era, illustrating the hotel's proximity to landmarks such as the Paramount Theatre, NBC, CBS, and the Hollywood Bowl, with images of Mickey Mouse and Hollywood celebrities.

The reverse side of the material provides an intimate look at the hotel itself, using photographs and descriptive text to convey the luxury and services offered. It highlights various amenities, including the hotel's rooms, suites, ballrooms, and the famous pool area, described as the scene of many famous Hollywood events. This side emphasizes the hotel's function as "Aviation Headquarters," showcasing its commitment to serving the needs of travelers, particularly those involved in the burgeoning aviation industry of the time.
