Description:

Striking full color example of De Jode's rare map of Europe, which was issued only in the second edition of the Speculum Orbis Terarrum in 1593. The map includes a massive Terra Nova Zembla, several Northeast Passages and a number of the great mythical islands of the Atlantic, including S. Brandain, Bresil and Frislandt. A large inset includes 20 costumed figures, representing the dress of various European inhabitants. A remarkable wide margined example. A bit of a misfold at the centerfold, but otherwise a remarkable example of this rare and important early map of Europe.
