Description:

Rare map of Florida, the Gulf Coast, Caribbean and Central America, by Gerard Van Keulen, son of the Johannes Van Keulen, the patriarch of the Van Keulen family of sea chart publishers. With the assistance of Claes Janz Vooght, the family published the Zee-Atlas whose first edition appears in 1680, and later the Nieuwe Groote Lightende Zeefakkel, a monumental 5 volume work which was commenced in 1678 and continuously enlarged and expanded over the next 100 years. The map provides tremendous detail throughout the region, including a great number of dangerous rocks, soundings and a host of other fine details. Florida shows a bit of its archipelagic configuration which would be popularized in Bellin's later maps. The information in the map is very much portolan in style, providing a great number of names along the coastlines, including approximately 50 names in Florida alone. Striking large decorative cartouche, 3 compass roses and sailing ship. Nothing is known of Jan Sikkena, to whom the map is attributed. Title repeated in Dutch. A striking rare map in beautiful full color.
