Description:

Scarce battle plan, showing the actions of the Union and Rebel forces between Sherman's arrival outside of Atlanta on July 19, 1864 and his movement on the enemy line's south of Atlanta on August 26, 1864, based upon an original manuscript map prepared by Captain O.M. Pope of the Army Corps of Engineers. The map is widely regarded as the first obtainable map of the area to include a street plan of Atlanta. Extends from Buckhead, Howell's Mill and Casey Montgomery Church in the North to Decatur and Peach Tree Church in the East Point and Terry's Mil in the South and Utoy Post Office and Mt. Gileud Church in the West, centered on Atlanta. Extensive notes, topographical details, roads, rivers, and many other place names and land owners names shown. From The Report of the Chief Engineer. Stephenson 139.
