Description:

Rare outline color example of the first state of Colton's map of Wisconsin. Wisconsin became a Territory in 1836 and a state in 1848. The map shows several counties whose name would later change, Bad Ax (Vernon) and LaPointe (Bayfield). A number of the Northern Counties are still not formed. Decorative borders and an inset of Milwaukee. The first outline color example we have ever offered. It appears that this outline color example was issued in a special edition, with title page credits showing the publication in both London and New York, and may have been made especially for the London market.
