Description:

Nice example of Charles Desilver's issue of this seminal map.

From 1846-1851, Mitchell and later Thomas Cowperthwait used the same basic plate for the map of Oregon & Upper California, updating the information and later the title on a more than annual basis. In this second state of the map, 2 degrees of the Pacific have been removed and the map shifted east two degrees, to show more of the course of the Yellowstone River, and the regions just east of the Rocky Mountains.

The early errors have been corrected and the cartography continues to improve. In addition to adding counties in vivid color (a few still stretching nearly across the entirety of New Mexico and Utah, the map is much updated along the Rio Grande and south of Salt Lake. Many new trails are added, including Fremont's trails, Kearney, Col Cooke, etc. The Spanish or Los Angeles Route, Oregon Trail and Lewis & Clark Canoe Routes are still shown. The Gadsden Purchase is now shown, as is the difference between
