Description:

Rare separately issued map of the Carolinas, extending from Cape Charles and the mouth of the Cheasapeake to St. Maria and St. Philip Island, showing the Limit of King Charles the II. Granted A.D. 1663. Large inset extending from Carven County to the Edistow River, centered on Charleston, showing a close up of the region. This is one of the rarest and most interesting of Moll's regional American maps, which was issued in Humphreys An historical account of the incorporated society for the propagation of the gospel in foreign parts. The map shows towns, roads, English and Indian Settlements, Parish Churches, rivers, islands and other interesting details. Several battles are noted, including Col. Craven's routing of the Indians in 1715 and Col. Barnwell's defeat of the Indians in 1712. No dealer catalogue records for the map in the past 25 years. The map has been flattened and backed to support some fold weakness and very minor loss at the intersections, but is generally a very presentable example. Only the second time we have seen the map in the past 15 years.
