Description:

A nice example of Hondius' map of Virginia, Maryland and the Chesapeake region, from the Atlas Novus. This map is the first state of Hondius' map. The map depicts the discoveries in the region detailed by John Smith in his map of 1612. This map was the first widely disseminated version of the Smith map and therefore highly influential on other maps of the period and became the standard map of the region until Augustine Hermann's map of 1673. The map is one of the most detailed maps of the Chesapeake region to date and is an essential map for collectors of this region. Nice dark impression. Minor offsetting and minor centerfold split, just touching printed image, but generally a nice example in old color with nice wide margins.. Burden 228.
