Description:

Scarce third state of De Vaugondy's map of America, updated to include the details of all three of Cook's voyages. The NW Coast of America is still mapped with part information and part conjecture. The Spanish contacts with the region are annotated, as is Sir Francis Drake's landing in 1578. The Northwestern Plains are shown as a large blank, transitioning from the sea of the West and similar misconceptions to the pre-Lewis & Clark and Humboldt period. Text panel on the right. A good example, with a few extra creases and some soiling near the lower margins and a few minor tear just crossing the lower neatline. Backed with linen. Ex-Chicago Historical Society. A few stray pencil notes and the signature of Thomas Wilson on the verso. Still, in all, a good example of this scarce edition of the map.
