Description:

Interesting early map of the British Colonies in North America, illustrating the geo-political results of the French & Indian War. The map is based upon the map of John Mitchell, and uses shading to illustrate the regions which were lost by France and Spain to England at the conclusion of the war. Large inset map of the mouth of the Mississippi. Four inch tear just above the inset, which has been repaired with non-archival tape and has some discoloration, else a good example.
