Description:

Fine example of the first edition of Jefferys chart of the coastline from Salamanca de Bacalar to Brewer's Lagoon and the Mosquito Coast, centered on the Gulf of Honduras and the Rio Balize. Extends to the Port of Guatemala and La Trinidad on the Pacific Coast, showing numerous volcanoes in the region. The treatment of the Coastline is remarkably detailed, with shoals, islands, soundings and sailing directions. Many place names in both English & Spanish, especially in the regions along the Mosquito Coast, where the British settlements are shown. Numerous sailing ships are used to illustrate the navigable routes through the islands and channels of the coast. From an early edition of Jefferys' West India Atlas. Fine wide margined example of this striking map, on thick high quality paper.
