Description:

Fascinating study of the prevailing theories regarding the Northeast Coast of Asia during the second half of the 18th Century, prepared by Diderot. The 10 maps which accompany the supplement to Diderot's Encyclopedia are one of the earliest studies of comparative cartography, compiling the most modern variant theories and setting them out side by side or in a series of maps. This set of 3 maps focuses on the 3 theories of the NE Coast of Asia as reported by various German & Russian explorers.
