Description:

This is the second edition of Henry Seile's map of America, first published in 1652. The map has been re-engraved by Robert Vaughan at the direction of Seile's widow Anæ, making it the earliest map to show California as an Island published by a woman. The map is very similar to the earlier map by Henry, although the nomenclature of the Deleware River, Carolina and several places on the west coast have been changes. A marvelous early American map. McLaughlin 35; Tooley p.115, no. 12; Burden 379. Narrow margins, with some loss at the margins (as issued), minor creasing and misfolding and minor remnants of old tape on the verso. Moderately toned. Still a good example of this early map of America. Normally a $1500-2000 map.
