Description:

Scarce chart of the mouth of the Susquahanna, showing a plan of Havre de Grace, among other noteworthy points. Thomas J. Lee & C.N. Hagner; House Exec. Doc. 134, 25th Congress, 2nd Session. Amended version of Hauducoeur 1799 map extolling Havre de Grace location.

Produced by Thomas J. Lee & C.N. Hagner; House Exec. Doc. 134, 25th Congress, 2nd Session, the map is an amended version of 1799 Hauducoeur map extolling Havre de Grace location and includes an inset showing the details of the 1799 Hauducoeur map. In Maryland Geological Survey, the map is discussed at length, along with Anthony Smith's map of 1768 and the 1799 Hauducoeur map, which also focuses on the headwaters of the Susquahanna and would appear to promote Harve de Grace as a potentially significant port city.

The map is quite scarce, with only one example appearing at auction in the past 30 years and no dealer listings.
