Description:

Rare birdseye view of Redlands, California, one of the earliest obtainable graphic depictions of the City.

Fascinating birds-eye view of Redlands, looking northward from Redlands Heights. The town is sparsely populated, with only few buildings near downtown Redlands, although the City is well laid out and ready for growth. This is the earliest obtainable birdseye view of Redlands, pre-dating Moore's larger birdseye view (published in 1888), for which only one example is located by OCLC.
