Description:

Fine large scale map of Virginia, published at the outset of the Civil War.

The map is an original production, drawing from sources such as the Herman Boye map. The Eastern sheet of the map was frequently used as a "Seat of War" map. The full map is much rarer, with this being the first example of the 1862 edition of the map to appear in a dealer catalogue in over 10 years.

The present example is state 2, which includes Fair Oaks and a number of other cities near Richmond, which have been added following the release of the first edition.

Detailed Condition:

Pocket map. Flattened, with original brown cloth covers present.
