Description:

One of the great early 18th Century Atlas Plans of Rome. The City on Seven Hills is shown in remarkable detail, right down to the streets, churches, buildings, fountains, piazzas, bridges, statues & gates. A number of boats are also shown in the Tiber. The 14 coats of arms of the city are shown along with a key featuring place names for each of the 14 parts. Two large decorative cartouches and several cherubs and architectural borders finish this spectacular town plan, which illustrates the fine style and strong engraving indicative of J.B. Homann's early work. A fabulous decorative piece in full attractive color.
