Sketch of the Route of Capt. Warner's Exploring Party in the Sacramento Valley and Sierra Nevada; During the Months of August, September and October 1849 . . .

On this map is marked the spot, east of Goose Lake, where Capt. Warner was killed by Indians on Sept. 26, 1849....[Warner] made extensive examination of routes along the Pacific and in the Coast mountains, from San Diego to San Francisco, and had nearly completed his map of this previously unknown section of country, where he was directed to make the exploration in the Sierra Nevada, on which he lost his life in an Indian ambush.
