Description:

Striking example of Nicholas Berrey's rare map of the Postal Routes of France, one of the first printed postal maps of France and one of the earliest European postal maps.

This separately issued map, which appeared at about the same time as Tavernier's map of the French Postal Routes, includes 11 bird's-eye views of the major cities in France and a marvelous early decorative vignette showing two sets of horse drawn coaches, with mounted guards, an illustrative reference to the manner in which the mail was transmitted around France.
