Description:

A fascinating map of Northern Asia, extending from China and Korea to the Caspian and the Black Sea and covering most of Central Asia and Russia. Korea is correctly depicted as a peninsula. The Great Wall of China is shown in excellent detail. Includes a number of roads in China, Mongolia, and Russia, an unusual feature for such an early map. Coverage of China extends as far south as the Kian River and Nantchan. Nice coverage of Tibet, Afganistan, Tartary, Mongolia, Siberia, etc. One of the maps of the region.
