Description:

Fine example of Waghenauer's map of he region between Aberdeen and Bambourg, centered on Edinburgh.

Includes sea monsters, sailing ships, compass rose, decorative cartouche, soundings, anchorages and soundings. Wagenhaer was a Dutch pilot who produced the first set of effective navigational charts, under the title Spiegel der Zeevaardt.

These gorgeous charts, engraved by Baptist and Jan van Doetecum, embody the latest contemporary knowledge of navigation and position finding and set the standard which was followed for more than a century. Waghenauer's charts are magnificent works of art, which are highly sought after by collectors. An essential map for collectors of the region and the earliest decorative sea chart of the region.
