Description:

Second state of Hondius' decorative map of the South Polar region, predating the first appearance of New Zealand and Van Dieman's Land. The supposed coastline of the unknown southern continent continues to appear. Includes notes regarding the affirmation of the discovery of islands by Magellan and Hernando Galego. A good example in old color. The map has been restored in the upper left and right margins, with some minor mottling in the upper left corner, just entering the printed image, but unobtrusively so. Normally a $2500.00 map. Tooley, 729.
