Description:

Johannes Loots edition of this early chart of Puerto Rico by Arent Roggeveen, from his Het Brandende Veen, with North oriented at the bottom of the map, including a large inset of the Harbor at San Juan .

Roggeveen's chart of Puerto Rico is the earliest obtainable sea chart to focus on the island, with the exception of the maps which appeared in Bordone's Isolario and similar small format works. The detail is exceptional. The present example is the second edition of the map, bearing the imprint of Robijn.

Arent Roggeveen was a land surveyor, mathematician, poet and teacher of navigation. Born in Delfshaven, he later moved to Middelburg where both the Dutch East and West India Companies were based. He was employed by both companies as a teacher in the art of navigation. He also helped maintain their collections of hydrographic manuscripts and charts, including Spanish portulanos of the West Indies. The completed work was the first Dutch pilot that was focused on select areas of the American coastline. Previously, all printed maps and charts that dealt with this coastline were on a much larger scale.

Roggeveen died in 1679. Goos' widow sold the plates to Jacob Robijn, who reissued the maps with his name added to the title, but otherwise unchanged, in 1680. The plate was thereafter sold to Johannes Loots, circa 1706. All examples of the map are extremely rare. The atlases were undoubtedly published in limited quantity. Working sea charts and pilots from the 17th Century are inherently rare due to the nature of their use aboard ships. The vast majority of them were either destroyed by use or destroyed intentionally when new updated versions were obtained.
