Fine example of Coronelli's scarce and highly detailed map of the Caribbean, extending from the southern tip of Florida and the Canal di Bahama to the Yucatan, to the easternmost Antilles and Trinidad, centered on Hispaniola.

Includes a number of smaller islands, including the Caymans, Virgin Islands and smaller islands off the coast of Mexico. A marvelous note near the top of the map identifies Guanahani, the island discovered by Columbus, which is now believed to be San Salvatore. A nice dark impression, including rhumb lines. Fine dark impression with wide clean margins, which has apparently never been folded.

Detailed Condition:

Margin at top extended for framing.
