Description:

Fine separately issued thick paper example of the US Coast Survey map of St. George's Sound and Apalachicola Bay, separately published by the US Coast Survey in 1860.

This is an example of a chart which was apparently never published by the US Coast Survey in its annual report and is, therefore, extremely rare. The present example is Electrotpe Copy No. 1.

Includes extensive topographical and hydrographical details, sailing directions, noets, tidal information and soundings, with notes on the local lighthouse. A fine example of this rare separately issued chart.

Detailed Condition:

Thick paper. Folded along edges for storage, with some repairs along the folds and one repaired tear entering the image on the left side.
