Description:

Rare separately issued map of Hungary, published by Frederick De Wit in Amsterdam.

The map is drawn from the same plate as the map of Johannes Meyssens. De Wit purchased the plate from Meyssens in about 1666, and is dated based upon a single example in a private European collection.

The map includes large views of:

- Buda (Buda vulgo Ofen)
- Bratislava (Posoniensis vulgo Presburg)
- Newheus
- Belgradum (Belgrad)

The map was drawn during the Great Turkish War, from 1667 to 1683. Portraits of the Holy Roman Emperor Leopold I and the Turkish Sultan Mohammed IV are shown.

De Wit's map follows generally the model of the Danckerts maps of 1657 and 1663 (links below):
