Description:

One of the most famous decorative maps of America. This map shows major American Cities across the top and indigeneous costumes along the sides. Blaeu resisted the California as an Island myth long after it was widely excepted. No sign of the Great Lakes. The second state of the map, after the rare first state of 1617, which predates the authorization to disseminate the discoveries of the Straits of Le Maire and State Land. Omits Terra Australis, but the name of this landmass remains. A nice example in old color from the 1635 Dutch Edition of Blaeu's Atlas. Burden 189.
