Description:

One of the earliest commercial maps to focus on Southern California.

Interesting large format map of Southern California and part of Nevada, hand colored by counties, from Asher & Adams Atlas of the United States.

The map was conceived as a railroad map, so the primary details involve railroad lines and stations. Many early counties not yet present, including Orange, Riverside and Imperial. While ostensibly a railroad map, the only railroads are in Santa Clara, Monterrey and Los Aglees Counties. Even San Diego lacks rail service. Excellent detail.
