Description:

Highly detailed map of the Chesapeake Bay region, showing towns, rivers, inlets, shoals, Islands, and other details.

Predates the resolution of the boundary dispute between the Penn Family and Lord Baltimore over the ownership of Delaware. Cape Hinlopen was ultimately the deciding point of reference, which resulted in the Penn Family obtaining control of most of Delaware, a dispute which began in the 17th Century and was not resolved until the 1750s and ultimately mapped by Mason & Dixon in the early 1760s.

This map depicts the entire Chesapeake Bay and extends from the lower part of Pennsylvania south, to the Norfolk area. Delaware is not named. Symbols are provided for English plantations and for Indian plantations and houses.

This map is important because it is probably the most widely owned map of the tidewater region in the
