Description:

Rare promotional brochure, featuring four early sightseeing routes in Los Angeles, one for Beverly Hills, one for Hollywood, one for Pasadena and one for Los Angeles through Exposition Park.

One of the more interesting places noted is "Gay's Lion Farm", a Lion training facility operated by Charles and Muriel Gay in the El Monte area, which operated from 1925 to 1942.

Includes an illustration of La Jolla Cove, the Manx Hotel in San Francisco and the Hotel Leamington in Oakland.

Each map includes an extensive key noting points of interest on each excursion, including the homes of the stars in Beverly Hills, movie studios in Hollywood, various tourist attractions and other places of interest.

This is the first time we have ever seen this pamphlet, which is apparently quite rare.
