Description:

Rare Map of Northern India From the Trigonometrical Survey of India

Highly detailed map of parts of Tibet, Sikkim and Bhutan, from the Trigonometrical Survey of India, printed in Dehradun in February of 1885.

The map was part of the survey of the Nepal Border.

At the bottom right, a note is pasted on, describing two important trading routes in the region.

The key identifies:

- Monasteries (Gompa) and Temples (Lhakang)
- Graziers huts or encampments
- Passes
- Lakes
- Rivers
- Forts and Headquarters of Officials

Detailed Condition:

Several minor holds at folds.
