Description:

One of the Earliest Obtainable Large Plans / Views of Siena

Fine early bird's-eye view of Siena, published by Pierre Mortier in his Nouveau Theatre de Toute L'Italie in 1704.

Mortier's view shows the a fortified hill town, including the principal fortified walls of the old city and the major landmarks clearly visible, with the various town gates named.

The view includes a 110-point key and a title cartouche featuring the arms of the city and another featuring the Virgin Mary.

Mortier's work was primarily a re-issue of Blaeu's townbook of Italy. However, the Siena view is one of a number of new views added by Mortier which had not been a part of the original Blaeu townbook.
