Description:

The map is decorated with numerous sea monsters, sailing ships, a well-placed elephant above the source of the Ganges, and an illustration of the Great Wall of China.
