Description:

Shows The Republic of Texas

Attractive example of Greenleaf's scarce map of North America, from his rare Universal Atlas.

The cartography of the Northwest and Upper Missouri regions are dominated by information from Lewis & Clark. The map includes a 54-40 or fight Northwestern Border between Canada and the US and an early depiction of Mexico, in the first decade after its independence from Spain. Upper California and Texas are still a part of Mexico. Alaska is shown as Russian Possessions.

This edition of the map shows Texas in its early Republic Configuration, focusing on the region below the Red River.
