Description:

Rare early promotional map for Santa Ana Gardens, as developed by the Wilmax Land Company.

On one side is a large map of Santa Ana, identifying the location of Santa Ana Gardens.

On the verso is a detailed map of the development area, which apparently did not get completed and is now subdivided in a slightly different fashion as Centennial Park, retaining Harvard Street and Fairview Avenue, but without the other university names shown here.

Includes promotional literature and a number of early black and white photos.
