Description:

A Map of Ile de France with Military scenes within the map

Rare map of the area around Paris, published in Paris by Jean Le Clerc.

The map tracks the Seine River from (Monterrau Sur Jonne) Montereau, Fontainebleau and Melun through Paris to Mante and Vernon.

Chartres appears in the lower left corner, with Brie and Limoges also shown. A contemporary manuscript note "comte Robert" appears next to Brie.

The map includes several sections with h military scenes.

- Near the towns of Annet (Anet) and Yvery (Evereux), a force of mounted and foot soldiers appears near the caption R. de France et de Navarre.
- South of Corbeil-Essonnes, there are cannon, foot soldiers and mounted soldiers. Corbeil was besieged by the Duke of Burgundy in 1418. The Protestants of France attacked it in 1562 amidst the religious war called the First Civil War. In 1590 General Alessandro Farnese, who had come to the assistance of the Catholics in France, fought at Corbeil.
- The largest scene appears east of Paris, near Laigny, Bois d. Vincene, Meaux and Ferte (La Ferté-sous-Jouarre).
