Description:

A Rare Separately Published Chart of the Valparaiso Coastline

Good example of this extremely rare sea chart of the area around Valparaiso in Chile, which accompanied Abel Aubert DuPetit-Thouars monumental work on the West Coast of America, Hawaii, etc.

d'honneur . . . published in Paris (1840-1844, 1855 and 1864). Bancroft, who never saw a copy of the Atlas, described the work as the most important of all books relating to the history of California during the Mexican period, 1824-1846. It is likely that the separately published chart pre-dates the publication of the chart in the Atlas volume.

During the 1830s, the French interest in scientific exploration and commercial reconnaissance of the newly independent nations in the Americas was at its peak. Dupetit-Thouars visited Valparaiso, Callao, and Honolulu, and reached Kamchatka in August 1837. He then recrossed the north Pacific to the California coast, visiting Monterey, San Blas, and Acapulco, and finally the Galapagos in January, 1838. After spending 6 months in the Galapagos, the entourage left for the South Pacific, before returning to France in June 1839.

Rarity

The chart is very rare on the market, especially as a separately published sheet.
