Description:

Detailed chart of a portion of the Coast of Peru, with contemporary annotations showing use at sea in 1872.

Includes four profile views.

The present chart is based upon surveys on the coast of South America aboard the H.M.S. Beagle in 1836, during its second voyage.

The second voyage of HMS Beagle is notable for carrying the recently graduated naturalist Charles Darwin around the world. While the survey work was carried out, Darwin travelled and researched geology, natural history and ethnology onshore. He gained fame by publishing his diary journal, best known as The Voyage of the Beagle, and his findings played a pivotal role in the formation of his scientific theories on evolution and natural selection.

Detailed Condition:

Hole a lower right corner. Minor soiling. Includes pencil annotations from an early voyage.
